Google Search Engines, One Of The Best Search Engines

Google have emerged one of the best and biggest search engines in the Internet world. Search engines are very popular because through search engines people look for information. If there were no search engines then it would be difficult to search information. Anyway when I first entered into the online world, I came to know about the yahoo as such search engine, I have used yahoo a lot earlier but later I started using Google and it's really very superb in comparison to other search engines. Google have developed them very well. Their search engines provide related information most of the time plus there are lots of website collection. Google have started producing their own products, many products besides this search engines. In most of their products, they have some little hidden tricks which are known to very few people. When you discover such hidden tricks, it's really fascinating to see it.

Such hidden tricks are called Google Easter egg. I have written a very well article on this when I first discovered it. I thought of sharing with the people because I am sure very less people know about it. Sharing information is Google isn't it. It's actually most of the time found in the end of the program or in the about page of the product. If you open the page or click the page, they start playing some music or display their details and sometimes give very funny messages. It's really amazing to see. Beside Google, there are many of the products of other companies where you can find such hidden messages. I show many of them.

Since I came across many such fascinating things and plus I am fond of computer tips and tricks, so I thought of sharing with the people and created a blog through which I can place my view, idea and information in front of you. I am doing this since from the last 1 and ½ years and still doing it now also. Through this I came to know many people who have same interest like mine. They too have interacted with me many times through comment box or through contacting me. It's really nice to meet people of same interest. Lot of people do the same thing creates websites or blogs to share their information with other people. It's one of the hobbies where I am really active.

Besides sharing information we can also earn some money if we work smartly. It's very easy. You just need to put google adsense code on the blog, whenever any people click on those advertisements in your blog. You get paid on per click basis. You just need to bring targeted visitors on the blog. The more visitors the more money.
