5 Online Business Ideas You Can Make Money Quickly With

It really only takes one good idea to quickly begin making money on the Internet. To help get your creative juices flowing here are five online business ideas you can quickly make money doing.

1. Work for other internet businesses as a virtual assistant. This can be something as simple as answering the phone as though you are at the office of the company you are answering the phone for. It could also include other things such as replying to emails, providing customer support, typing, and so on.

2. Write blog articles for over 1 million bloggers. There are millions of blogs right now that need articles written for them.

If you'd like to stay at home and provide a service that is in high demand writing blog articles is definitely one way to do it. You can make good money and you will never be bored because of the wide variety of blogs on the Internet today.

3. Start a membership site offering tips on what you are an expert at. People are willing to pay for information and if it is something you can help them with on an ongoing basis you could start a membership site.

One I came across recently was a membership site offering information on celebrities. You joined their membership site and got contact information of thousands of celebrities.

You also see membership sites on various things including small business training, affiliate marketing, home improvements, and so on.

4. Sell other people's products as an affiliate marketer. This is a great way to get started making money online and if you treat it like a business you can literally get rich.

The products are already created for you and so are your website and marketing materials. Your job is to get visitors to your affiliate site and make money when they purchase from you.

5. Start your own blog and sell advertising spots on it. Initially you might want to put Google ads on your blog by joining the Google AdSense program.

As your traffic increases you can sell advertising in the form of text Link ads, banner ads, and so on. This actually can become very profitable for you long term because you can pick up corporate sponsors as well. There will be more large companies moving their advertising to blogs in the future as other forms of marketing become less effective.

These are five online business ideas you can quickly make money with. They all can turn into very lucrative businesses and are things you can do right from the comfort of your own home.

If you spend a little time you can probably come up with more great ideas of your own. Just get out a piece of paper and start writing. <http://www.sheamarketing.com>
